U.S. Application No. 10/628,373

Atty. Docket No. 20435-00141-US1

Claims 1-58 were rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ostlie (5,876,805) in view of Moy (5,945,489).

To establish prima facie obviousness of a claimed invention, all the claim recitations must be taught or suggested by the prior art. In re Royka.¹ All words in a claim must be considered in judging the patentability of that claim against the prior art. In re Wilson.² (MPEP § 2143.03). When evaluating the scope of a claim, every recitation in the claim must be considered. See e.g. In re Ochiai.³ (MPEP § 2144.08). The evidentiary record fails to teach each recitation of the present invention. Specifically, the references taken as a whole or severally fail to teach the absence of exogenous photoinitiator.

The Examiner cites Ostlie as disclosing photopolymerizable thiol-ene compositions wherein the -ene compound can be a multifunctional acrylate. The Examiner further suggests Ostlie's thiols correspond to those of the present invention. The Examiner notes Ostlie does not teach the Michael addition products of the present invention. The Examiner cites Moy as teaching Michael addition products. the Examiner further notes Moy does not teach thiol compounds.

Ostlie relates to photocuring compositions in the presence of exogenous photoinitiator. Ostlie discloses compositions that comprise "at least one acyl phosphine oxide photoinitiator."

The present response amends Claims 1, 45, and 51 to recite "the substantial absence of exogenous photoinitiator," and cancels claims 45 and 49. To clarify that the invention comprehends compositions and methods in the substantial absence of exogenous photoinitiator. Support for the recitation added by amendment was present in the original submission at, for example, paragraph [0042], lines 4-5.

In contrast to the present invention, which recites the substantial absence of exogenous photoinitiator, Ostlie requires "at least one acyl phosphine oxide photoinitiator." Moy was cited as teaching Michael addition products which does not provide the teaching missing from Ostlie.

Conclusion:

In view of the above, consideration and allowance are respectfully solicited.

³ In re Ochiai, 71 F.3d 1565, 37 USPQ2d 1127 (Fed. Cir. 1995).
